hand held positioning

Magellan's GPS NAV 1000 PRO is perfect for field work. Now, anyone can quickly and easily solve positioning problems. It determines the position of a site. It navigates to a desired location.

This small, hand-held, 30-ounce unit receives signals from the Global

Positioning System satellites. The "PRO" uses these signals to determine its location anywhere in the world. It displays the position in LAT/LON or UTM. It can send its data to a GIS system.

If you do field work in historical preservation, then you must see the PRO. Call or fax us today for more information.

Prehistory of the Sacramento River Canyon, Shasta County, California

By Mark E. Basgall and William R. Hildebrandt

C.A.R.D. Publication number 9, Fall 1989

This monograph presents the findings of data recovery excavations conducted at four prehistoric archaeological sites in the Sacramento River Canyon, Shasta County, California. This work resulted in the recovery of more than 20,000 tools, 226,000 pieces of debitage, and a wide variety of faunal and floral remains. Three major periods of human occupation were documented within the canyon. Notwithstanding the fact that three discrete cultural phases were identified, lifeways in the canyon also display a marked degree of homogeneity. From the vantage of available archaeological data, anadromous fish and acorns were probably used throughout the sequence and subsistence-settlement specialization vis-a-vis these resources never achieved the level found in areas to the south.
