How Gender Expression Influences the Violence Faced by Lesbian Women

By Shawna Irissarri

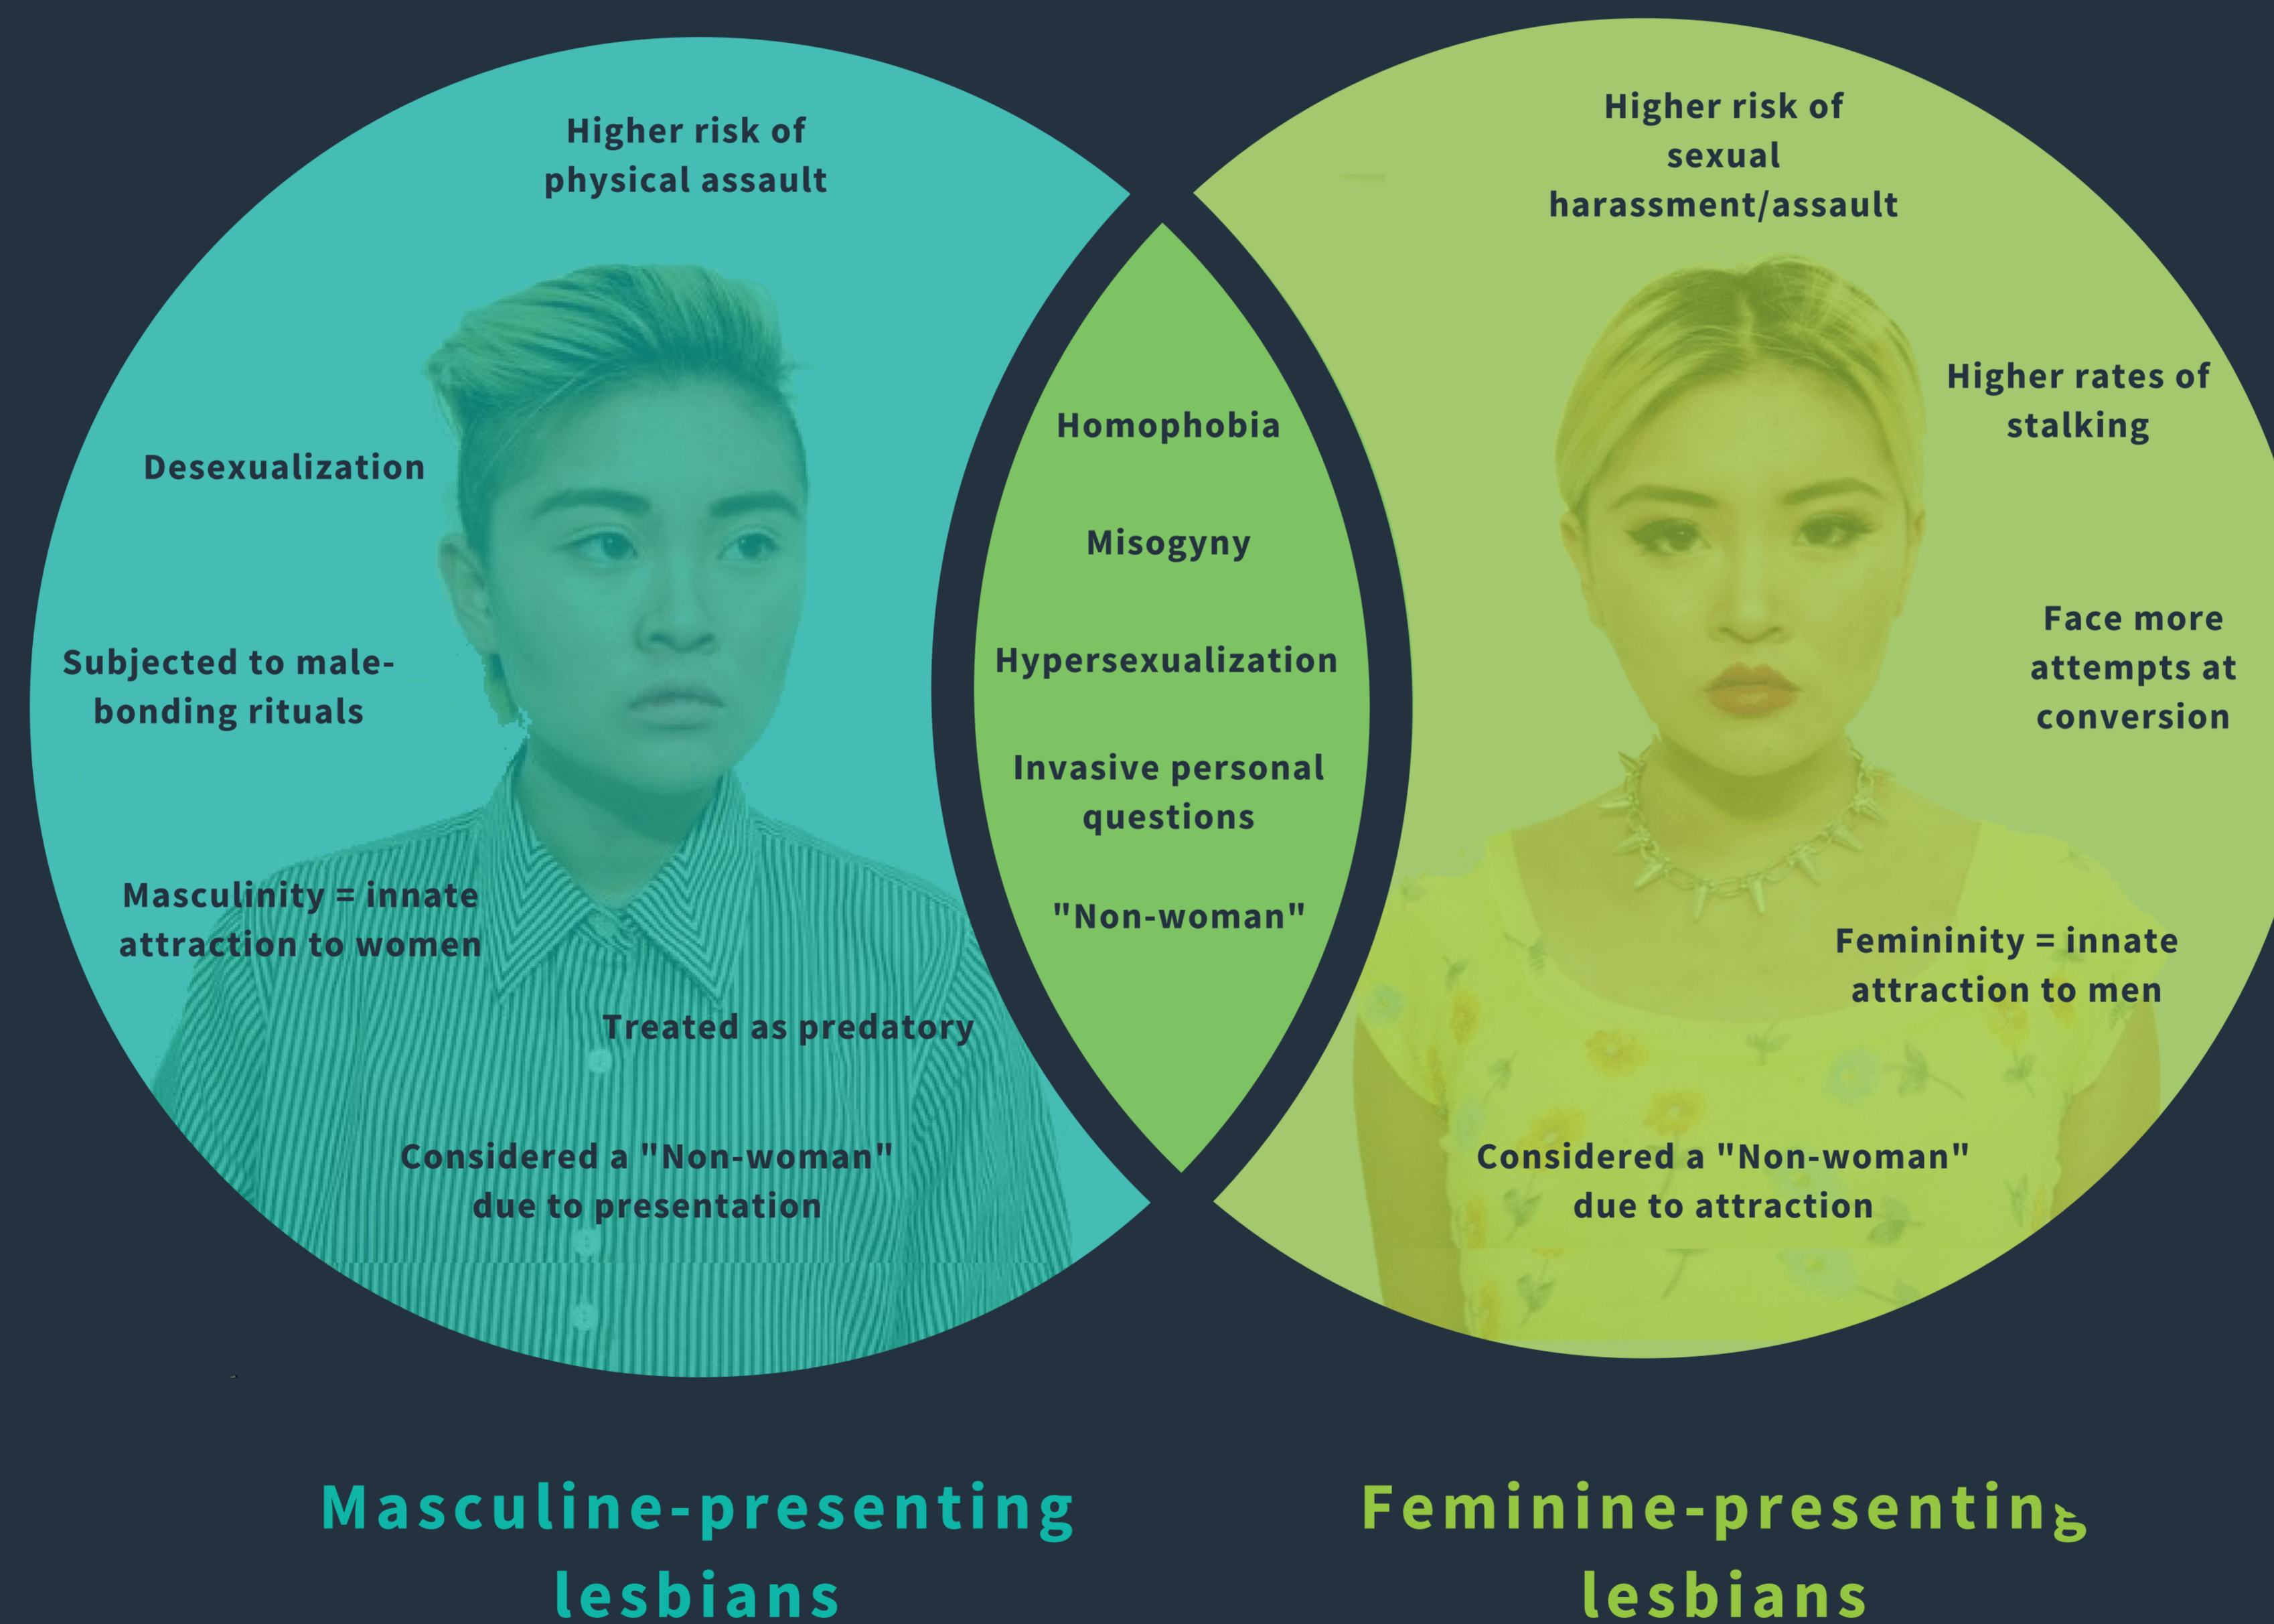

1 Introduction

As a lesbian woman, I believe that the discrimination faced by lesbian women is a specific manifestation of homophobia based on the perceived subversion of gender roles. Homophobia is based in sexism, but how are they interrelated?

2 Methods

2 in-depth qualitative interviews were conducted and responses were coded according to theme

3 How does treatment of lesbians by cis/het peers differ based on gender presentation?

4 Conclusion

Studying homophobia only as a whole leads to a misunderstanding of the specific intersection between misogyny and homophobia as much of this research focuses on gay men. Future studies should have a wider range of participants to allow for an analysis of the lesbophobia faced by transgender/non-binary lesbians specifically.
